

today's Home

The Washington Times

Ring in the old

In about 96 hours, everybody's going to be yelling about the New Year. Happy N-o-o-o Year! New! New! So let's be different. Let's think old. Not musty, dusty old but cool old, fun old. As we sneak into 1991, here's some slick stuff that is either genuinely vintage — or just looks it. Either way, these things span the years with class, not to mention good humor. Enjoy.

/ THURSDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1990

1960

We're being rather loose with this date. It's more or less an era when many of Washington's familiar older buildings were in their heyday. Some have been torn down now — but local artist Joey Manlapaz has managed to preserve their memory. Shown is "Lansburghs," which is painted in oil on paper. Chinatown, the F Street business district and Connecticut Avenue are also some of her subjects. For information, call the artist at 202/269-9227.

