Obee Editions is proud to present Drawn from Memory, an online-exclusive exhibition featuring lithographs by Matt Magee, José Antonio Suárez Londoño, Laylah Ali, and Katie Walker.

Through abstraction, language, and gesture, these artists investigate how memory informs identity, place, and the very ways we see and express our experiences. From asemic writing and daily rituals to landscapes of recollection, the prints on view offer deeply nuanced reflections on the imprint of experience.

On view through September 4, 2025.

Recent Collaboration: Cedra Wood

We're thrilled to share a new project with New Mexico-based artist Cedra Wood, whose practice blends exquisite draftsmanship with surreal, symbolic storytelling.

Coming soon: a suite of three stunning lithographs that feature the invasive kudzu plant as both subject and metaphor—obscuring, tangling, and draping across the image like a living tapestry. Elegant, wild, and deeply symbolic, these works highlight Cedra's dynamic use of color and intricate mark-making.

Stay tuned for the full story of the collaboration and the print release later this year!

We're also excited to announce two new publishing collaborations, coming later this year:

- A vibrant new suite of prints by Elisabeth Condon. Elisabeth will be collaborating in the studio for two weeks in September.
- Meditative, richly layered works by Glenn Goldberg, who will be in the studio in October.

Both projects are co-published with Tyler Emerson-Dorsch and Brook Dorsch, and we can't wait to share more.

Expect previews and announcements in the months ahead!
